By | Jennifer Lee

Kilton's latest power suit.
EVS is designed to be revised, not reworked, each season, shifting to fit the needs of the man who requires versatility in his wardrobe but isn't searching for a completely new look.

Suit for "evolution." EVS debuts in October with a slim fit, shorter jacket and soft shoulders. Available ready-to-wear, the suit will be revised again in the spring and with each new season, delicate modifications may include taking in the waist, narrowing the lapel or adjusting the shoulders.

Choices
Shown exclusively to Kilton, Kilton's can include cashmere, wool and silk. The version shown here is a navy pinstriped double-breasted fit made of 80 percent cashmere and 10 percent silk.

Easy
Kilton is renowned for its tailoring, and this suit has a malleable structure that makes it lightweight and soft.

Careful
Each piece is cut and sewn by hand, then meticulously pressed to ensure the proper contours. Every four hours are spent constructing each jacket.

Price
EVS: $6,800. Custom shirt and silk necktie: $125. Kilton: $549 and $285.
